The Ethics of Reviewing Outside Legal Fees: Dedicated to the Legacy of Founding Member Bruce R. Meckler (1955-2016)

Legal fee analysis is the comprehensive review and analysis of attorney fees and costs by an outside party in a legal matter. Professionals who routinely perform outside or third-party legal fee analysis include attorney fee experts, special fee masters, bankruptcy fee examiners, fee dispute neutrals, and legal bill reviewers.

The following ten best practices measures were developed over several years with input and consensus from thought leaders (members and non-members) from across the legal fee analysis professional community. These best practice measures promote values such as ethics, independence, and professional development. These peer review driven standards help strengthen the legal fee analysis field by ensuring integrity in the process and reliability in the results. These best practice measures fulfill the "generally accepted" standards within a professional community as required by Daubert and are widely considered the mainstream of outside legal fee analysis.

All our members (i.e. fully qualified attorney fee experts, special fee masters, bankruptcy fee examiners, fee dispute neutrals, and legal bill reviewers) are signatories to the following ethics for reviewing outside legal fees:

- 1.00 Adhere to the proper standard of reasonableness.
- 2.00 Observe a consistent and reliable methodology.
- 3.00 Keep updated on the latest jurisprudence (i.e. the body of law, key court rulings, expert fee reports, etc.) on reasonable attorney fees and expenses.

Hourly Rate Terms

Hourly rates are not attorney fees. But hourly rates help determine attorney fees. There is a difference between rates charged or billed and rates actually paid. Here are some other basic rate terms used in hourly billing:

Premium Rates – Rates paid at the high end of the distribution curve (Tier 4).

Discount Rates – Rates charged below market value at the low end of the distribution curve (Tier 1).

Unitary Rates – A discounted rate charged by a group of litigators.

Quoted Rate -- Agreed upon hourly rate by the attorney and client in a fee agreement.

Client Rate -- Based on a single hourly charge for the client, regardless of which attorney works on the case and what he or she does on the case.

Activity Rate -- Based on hourly rates that vary depending on the type of service or activity performed and the degree of difficulty of the activity. Sometimes call task-based rate.

Blended Rate -- Single hourly rate set by taking into account the mix of attorneys working on the matter.

Survey Purpose

In this information age, data or analytics is decision making. From investments to sports, data-based analytics has transformed our economy and permeated all aspects of our society. Indeed, data is power. With good, actionable data, you can increase your market share or advantage and gain insight and understanding. Data analytics is essential to the practice of law. With new position titles like price analyst, data specialist, and practice analytics, law firms recognize the need for metric-based decision making.

This survey is the tool or method to obtain hourly rate data. In litigation, data can be used as evidence in court or ADR. Our billing rate data is grounded in mathematics and statistics. The purpose of this survey is to provide the most current, accurate, and reliable hourly rate data of civil litigation in the U.S. From our meta-data, you can understand the economics of hourly rates in litigation and with more targeted or focused data, you can make direct comparisons of defense and plaintiff rates among litigators with less than 10 years of litigation experience. Litigators can use this hourly rate data for two general purposes:

- 1. Internal Compare Your Hourly Rate to Your Litigation Peers
- 2. External Cite as Evidence to Support or Challenge Hourly Rates in Court / ADR

NALFA's Hourly Rate Tier System

While complying the hourly rate data, we noticed there may be a way to group the data fields into broader categories. As such, we applied a tier system to our hour rate ranges:

Survey Process & Methodology

This hourly rate survey was conducted via electronic mail (e-mail). This survey was conducted through our email marketing vendor, Constant Contact, Inc. This hourly rate survey started on May 9, 2022 and closed on September 23, 2022. We sent out over 45 email campaigns to our proprietary e-mail database of over 420,000 litigators from across the U.S. Our database contained litigators of all types – both plaintiff and defense counsel, from big law firms to solo shops, from big cities to small towns, and at all litigation experience levels.

We invited litigators to participate in this hourly rate survey. In order to incentivize them to participate, we offer all survey respondents the survey results at no cost. In order to prevent duplicate responses, once litigators participated in the survey, they were removed from our email database. Throughout the 5-month survey campaign, we carefully tracked the open rate, click rate, participation rate, and response rate.

The total number of participants in this hourly rate survey was 19,124. Of this, there were 17,443 who fully completed the survey. But of this, there were 16,627 who fully completed from valid litigators in the U.S. We did not include missing or deficient responses in our survey totals and results. With 10 questions and 103 variables, we had a total of over 1.5 million data points and intra-data points to analyze.

Conduct Your Own Hourly Rate Data Analysis

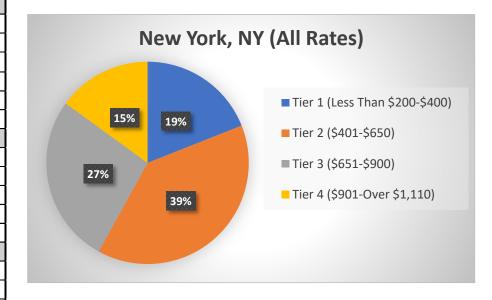

We let the hourly rate data speak for itself. Litigators and others can use this hourly rate survey to conduct their own rate analysis. Giving you access to the primary data allows litigators and others to perform their own macro and / or micro legal fee analysis. You can use the data sets to do your own rate analysis and draw your own actable rate intelligence. With over 100K data points, you can find:
